Trent will expand upon the decorative utility bowl demo and show a technique that is used to expand the possibilities of a utility piece becoming more decorative. Drawing inspiration from his environment (in Colorado and the mountains are very prominent), he came up with this interpretation. We go through the making of the bowl, beading the bowl, laying out and carving the mountain ranges. Also touching on wood prep, tool sharpening, finishing and a myriad of other possibilities.

Trent Bosch has been woodturning professionally for more than 25 years. He began exploring the art of woodturning while pursuing a Fine Arts degree from Colorado State University. After graduating, he fully devoted his efforts into creating one of a kind sculptural woodturnings. Over the years he has also enjoyed demonstrating and teaching hands on classes, sharing the knowledge and techniques he has developed freely with others. More recently he has devoted more time to developing, designing and manufacturing unique tools for woodturners. His work is displayed in numerous fine art galleries, permanent collections of museums and craft centers as well as in many private collections worldwide. Trent has taught and demonstrated his techniques for turning and sculpting wood throughout the United States and abroad.

This will be a great demo, so make time to tune in and watch, and don't forget to pay the demo fee, link found in the Editors page.

President's Perspective - Bob Anderson

Welcome to August. While it may seem like the doldrums in greater Washington, DC, the club has a number of events to look toward – and your participation is requested.

From August 11 to 19, MCW members are demonstrating our craft at the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair (their slogan - “The best 9 days of summer!”). Tim is again coordinating our efforts and, by the time you read this, he will have put out the call for folks to demonstrate for us. If you are not comfortable demonstrating, we always have the need for members to talk turning to attendees – or to just hang out and enjoy the company. On days that you are volunteering for the club, you get into the Fair for free. So, get with Tim to schedule your participation.

For our September meeting, Gary is once again coordinating our Annual Panel Critique, this year on September 7. He has room for one piece each from 15 members, so put your new or old or experimental or finished or unfinished piece (i.e., any piece on which you'd like feedback) to get a perspective from other artists, woodturners and artists from different disciplines.

On Saturday, October 7, the Woodworkers Club is again hosting their now-annual Oktoberfest. With a variety of vendors and food and drink, this parking lot event is a great event and an opportunity to showcase (mostly) wood art. MCW will again demonstrate at the event and it's always fun to talk to folks young and old who stop by. There are also spaces available for artists to sell their wares, and several members have participated there over the years. If you are interested in a booth at the event, contact Renee for further information (info@woodworkersclub.com. If you'd like to demonstrate for the club, contact me (robert.anderson4@verizon.net).

Finally, while it seems somewhat far away, don't forget our annual Pot Luck and extended Show, Tell & Ask on December 7. It's always good to break bread together and see so much member creativity. Bring a plate or pot of food to share for the Pot Luck and a piece you'd like to show in the S,T&A.

We hope this gets you thinking about the coming months and what you can do for the club. It is only through the efforts of members like you that our club continues to exist. We hope that you will take part in one of our upcoming events and add your talents to strengthen MCW. Stay well.

Bob

(From) MCW June 8th, 2023 Meeting Notes

Since there was no formal meeting in July, there were no minutes. But since the Fair is rapidly approaching here are the notes from the June meeting concerning the event.

Montgomery Agricultural Fair

Tim reported on the upcoming Montgomery Agricultural Fair. He and John Laffan went to the Oldtimers meeting for the fair and he says to mark your calendar for the Fair, August 11-19

The Old Timers section sponsors us and gives us tickets and free space at the fair!!!

He says that the Old Timers could use some help and referred us to his June 8 email that notes the following:

If you have never been in the oldtimers section, they show off things the way they used to be. Other than us and the blacksmiths, inside the building they have a general store, a working printing press, a kitchen from the 1940s or 50s (maybe earlier), a Player piano, old tools and toys and much more. Outside they try to have tractors and small old engines running (maybe pumping water, maybe just popping) and a small version of a mill in a building they built several years ago.

Inside the main building is bare right now and all that stuff needs to be brought into the building from the arts and craft building and then installed. That takes a lot of work and frankly, many of the oldtimers are getting....old...

If you can help, that would be great

- There are 4 work Saturdays July 15 (moving day), 22, 29 and Aug 5. If you come the last 3 days and sign in by 9 you can get lunch in the food hall for free. Pizza on the first day.
- They also need people to sit around during the fair and explain things. if that is what you like to do, they would love to have you...
- If you have old engines, old farm equipment (like they have a corn sheller (correct word?) or tractors or something else you would like to show how the old days were, they would love to exhibit it...(I don't know what exactly what all the old things they collect are but I would be glad to find out if you have something)
- The mill building is in need of repair... if you are interested in working on that in the next month, they hope to replace some siding and things like that.

If you just want to turn we have that as well!

Let me know if you have questions...

*See you at the 9 best days of summer!

By Joe Barnard

I have a story to pass on to everyone. I received a call in late July from a lady named Lyndall Dickinson.

She is friends with the Twinbrook Librarian, Chris Lundy, and Ms. Lundy gave her my contact information from our library display there this May. She contacted me because her father, Alvin Dickinson, was a charter member of MCW, at the very beginning of the club. At that time, he was ill and unable to attend meetings, but he had been a prolific woodturner. He used a converted metal lathe to turn wood, which he had given new life with a new motor. Cliff Poodry wrote a Member Profile article about Alvin for the April 2007 issue of the MCW newsletter. (Click on it here:

<https://montgomerycountywoodturners.org/newsletters/2007-newsletters/>)

Alvin passed away in 2009, and his tools and other equipment have been fallow. His daughter, Lyndall, initially tried to contact us in 2019, but we were not holding meetings at the time, so she waited. On July 18th , she met me at the Olney Library and donated all of his remaining turning tools to the club. Some of the tools he made, with steel his nephew, a machinist, acquired for him, but the majority appear to be tools that he purchased. There are roughly 30 gouges, scrapers, cutoff tools, etc., which we are tentatively planning to put into silent auction for the members. Most of the tools are handled, but not all. Some of the attached handles are less than ideally attached (with black tape) and will probably need to be replaced. Remarkably, all of the tools appear to have been sharpened and are ready to turn with. I've been educated by Gary G. that the gouges are continental style tools, meaning that they have weak tangs, are thin, and have a rather aggressive sharpening angle. Their use requires a specific technique because they can produce spectacular catches. They can also produce a very clean finishing cut. They should not be used without awareness, and possibly experience. Perhaps they can be reground for general use, I don't know. Lyndall is also eager to pass on his 'metal' lathe and a 5" Craftsman jointer. According to her, these two machines are vintage 1960. I'm sure they are in perfect condition. I have her contact number, which is a land line, as she has no internet, email, or cell phone. If anyone is interested in these tools, please contact me and I will give you her number. It is my intention to put these items into our silent auction at the September meeting, hoping to give them new life.

The award-winning American Woodturner journal is a premier benefit of membership in the AAW. Published bimonthly, it offers inspiration, education, information, and organization to members of the woodturning community and those who aspire to turn wood. The publication serves amateur and professional woodturners, broadly ranging in age, skill level, and interests, and seeks to attract more youth and women members. Its content encompasses all woodturning-related information, and includes instructional material, feature stories, process articles, artist retrospectives, and profiles of innovative turners.
